All the activities done during summer break classes are fantastic. I think all the children enjoyed a lot. Special thanks to Neha maam for sharing videos like making dough & chef cap at home. It helps a lot to us because in this crucial time, no one is able to go out for material required for activities. All the activities are creative and all the material used in the activities are available at home. Advik especially enjoyed making lemonade. Thanks again 🙏

Respected Pinky Ma'am,
Though it's very difficult to manage attending the classes amidst the covid pandemic at its peak, you always tried to make the classes the most interesting for your little ones, to make them learn values through different learning activities meant for their overall skill development. You made them learn the concept of giving, taught them to be polite using the magical words, taught them many word building activities that children enjoyed the most, I felt, for they all were hurrying up to collect the things staring with the given alphabet and rushing show them to their dear Ma'am. You took care to conduct the Earth Day activity also, which was postponed to 29th, and made them all feel proud to carry the earth in their coloured little hands. I always used to keep the colours and glue in the uppermost shelf in fear of the mess my little investigators could make once they found it, but that day my little one was so happy that she could dip her whole hand in colour along with her dearest Ma'am. Thank you so much dear Ma'am, for your love, concern, patience, excellent ideas for taking care of the emotions of each of your little ones.

Thank you so much dear Ma'am. 🙏🙏🙏🙏

Hope you are doing good and taking all the measures for you and your family's safety amid this pandemic. I want to convey my sincere gratitude to Hina mam and all the respected teachers of the school. In this unprecedented situation the way teachers planned a curriculum and effectively implemented digitally it is highly appreciated.
Managing kids in a class is not an easy task. Managing them virtually is beyond imagination. However you are managing them beautifully keeping an eye on each student as to whether the camera is on or not, every student is getting chance to speak or not and maintaining the interests of every student in the class is a mammoth task, which the teachers are performing well. The way you are encouraging revisions and other extracurricular activities is very commendable job. Mostly I sit with my kids BHAVISYA and BHUMIKA of 4th A and observe them during the classes. Feedback on online classes TODAY
This year online classes are much better than pervious year classes as now are ward is already familiar with apps and websites. In this year online class of physics, me and my ward can have more two-way communication with ma'am. My ward can ask her doubts on the spots, ma'am usually told them to switch on their camera so that it becomes more convenient for teacher to see what they are doing and how... That can help us to know what is going on their classes . PPTs made by their ma'am makes the concepts clear for them. Nowadays, Google drive folder are also made by teachers of each subject so that students can put their homeworks and notes. It will help us also to see our child's work .

As a student of Parinita Sengupta Ma'am I would like to say that she is a wonderful teacher. Her method of teaching her subject Computer Science is really great. She does not believe in just passively dictating the information to us, rather encourages us to tell our own understanding of the topic and then combines our spoken information into a correct interpretation of the topic's meaning. This methodical approach of hers to the teaching of her subject persuades us to be more self dependent students and allows us to logically comprehend even topics that are entirely new to us. She is very practical in her teaching too giving real life examples and situations for a topic. She clears our doubts quite efficiently. Since now due to COVID most of the work is now online, being a computer science teacher she never lags behind in clearing out and solving our problems related to technical mishaps or network issues. When we shifted to the G suite platform she helped all those who were not able to login with their school official ids into Google meet. As for her nature,she understands what we think and what we perceive of certain things. Whenever she feels there is a need she always stays at our sides and has full faith in us as a Class Teacher When we used to have our class teacher period, to make us start our rather strenuous school days with a bit of positivity she made us play games and had several interactive activities with us. She really is a helpful teacher also as one can approach her anytime to ask their doubts. She always encourages us to do our best and never detains any student as a failure rather encourages them to stand up even after facing a failure and strive forward for a successful tomorrow.
Thank you Parinita Ma'am for being such a nice teacher.

She has been one of the finest teacher who help students in every possible way. When we show our practicals to ma'am, she appreciates our every single effort. Ma'am has been a source of support and encouragement for all students. She is quite understanding and always push students to work beyond their comfort zones and limits and achieve great heights. Ma'am always try to make learning exciting for students. Besides teaching Web Application, she teaches us model values like how to be punctual, kind, supportive and motivating. A role model is a person who inspires and encourages us to strive for greatness. For me, my role model is Parinita ma'am. Because of ma'am my favourite subject is Web Application. Session 2: building resilience
Ms. Anusha Tyagi

The session which I liked the most was on building resilience as I felt very connected to the stories she used as an example to make us understand things better. When she asked us to write three qualities within us that time I realised that I am taking much time in recalling my qualities and that time I had a great discussion with myself. This activity really helped me in pointing our positives from my negatives. Ms Anusha also had a great interaction with us which made the session even more interesting and informative. The highlight of the session was bouncing back from difficulties.

I express my gratitude towards the school for organising such fruitful sessions to ensure all over development of the students, and making a sense of believing in ourselves.

9:56 PM

The Social Awareness and Sensitivity Camp [SAS camp] is organized from 26th April to 7th May 2021 for class XI as an essential component of +2 studies and curriculum.

2. During the camp, Speakers from diverse fields of academics/Society are invited upon by the School to hold informative and well-crafted sessions with students to provide them with valuable insight and knowledge about the various possibilities, functioning, scope and way forward offered under the respective domains.

3. Through this camp, Students are being made aware of the sensitivities of not only self-perseverance but also of the Society and environment at large.

4. These interactive sessions have been extremely helpful in crafting and guiding our children through various facets of life and after completion of this camp, it is expected that our children will be mature enough to look at themselves and the society with a new perspective.

Class : 11th D

Day: Wednesday

Date: 29TH April, 2021

Topic: Body Image and Self

My favorite session that was conducted as a part of Bhavan's Social Awareness and Sensitivity Camp would be on Body Image and Self which was taken by Ms Stuti Sood, a Psychologist from Fortis Hospital.

As teenagers, we start to become conscious and worried of our body image. We stand for long in front of the mirror, scrutinizing every inch of our body. This scrutiny leads to a critical self perception. One starts to hate what they see in the mirror or in pictures of them. Gradually this self hate becomes grave and translates into self harm. All this happens because of a wrong, negative and critical perception and understanding of our body and self. The session however, made us aware that what you project superficially, is not what matters. What matters the most is your inner self, your personality and your behaviour. We are our greatest critiques. When this criticism starts to heighten, we tend to hate ourselves and lean towards the standards and stereotypes set by the world which wants to let us down. In such a process, one forgets to be themselves. But one mustn't do that. What one must do and be, as aptly said by Ms Stuti in the Session is to be "BeYoutiful". This very line was my biggest takeaway from the session. The session taught me, that beauty is not monotonous, beauty is not a standard, rather beauty is in all shapes, sizes colours as a bouquet full of colourful and different flowers is better than a single coloured and type one. I would like to thank Ms Stuti for reviving some part of the confidence that I and many students had long lost due to a negative self and body perception. I would like to also offer my gratitude to my school for organizing such an informative platform for students to shift their focus from academics to the social and cultural aspects of life.
